FROM THE WEST.

[From the Sacramento Union.]

San Francisco, February 7.

Gold in New York, Saturday, was sold, at sterling, 1061. Greenbacks sold, 73½, selling at 74.

The English ship Sea Jehan, which went on the rocks at the South Head yesterday afternoon while beating out of port, is going to pieces, and the wreck will be sold at auction to-morrow. She was owned in Sydney. The Captain and mate were arrested for smuggling brandy and other goods from Victoria last week, and the mate was committed to jail on Saturday, while the Captain was admitted to bail and took the occasion to slip out on Sunday. After the crew got ashore the Captain's trunk was broken open and robbed of $1,000 by the sailors. The detectives have got on the track of the thieves and have already arrested one of them, Wm. H. Mackey, and recovered $340 of the money.

Stewart, the Fire Alarm telegraph operator at the City Hall, was ousted this evening by the Board of Supervisors, for sleeping on his post, and a successor appointed.

The Moses Taylor reports no sickness of any kind on the Isthmus. She was only stopped a few minutes by the Health Officer, and then allowed to go direct to her wharf and land her passengers.

J. A. Perry, a carpenter from Oakland, formerly residing in this city, was fatally crushed by a pile of ready made doors which fell upon him as he was examining them in the door of a store on California street to-day.

[From the Virginia Enterprise.]

San Francisco, February 7.

The jury in the case of Charles Kinsey et. Joseph Wallace et al. rendered a verdict for plaintiff for $7,000 damages, in the Twelfth District Court, yesterday morning. The action was brought to recover $30,000 damages for malicious prosecution, the defendant having attached plaintiff's store at Pescadero for a debt which was amply secured by a mortgage on other property; in consequence of which plaintiff claimed that Wallace was actuated by malace.

An exciting race came off over the Oneau House track, Tuesday afternoon, between Katy Tricks and Emigrant. The second was decided to be a dead heat, and the third was won by Emigrant by less than a head. The race was to harness, two miles and repeat. Time—5:45; 5:32½; 5:35.

Judge O. L. Shafter, of the Supreme Court, has discharged Revilo Wells, who was held to answer on a charge of embezzlement, preferred by M. S. Latham, on a writ of habeas corpus. Judge Shafter reviewed the testimony and came to the conclusion that no crime had been committed.

The Empire Mill and Mining Comany has declared a dividend of $15 per share, payable next Saturday.

From the North.

The Montana Post says the People's Theatre was opened by John C. Orem on Saturday, the 3d inst. Miss Flora Caven, Miss Minnie Warren, and Messrs. Ward, Mabbot, Shepard and Harry Taylor, are of the company.

The same paper says:

The Postlewait mill, but recently started, and crushing from the Kearsage lead, made one of the best, if not the best run ever made in the Summit district, last week. On five days run with fifteen stamps, they crushed seventy-five tons of rock, and cleaned up on Sunday morning $2,488 20. Their arrastras not being completed, it is estimated that 40 per cent. of the gold that would otherwise be saved now goes to loss. The mill will crush one hundred tons of rock per week. The expenses are $640 per week, or $6 40 per ton, including mining, hoisting and hauling the rock. As it now runs this is a tiptop paying mill, and when their facilities for saving gold are completed, and the defects are remedied, which are inseparable from new machinery, it is believed that the Postlewait will rank A No. 1, among the successful quartz mills of Montana. The result of this run will not be more gratifying to the Colonel than to Messrs. Steele and Shroyer, the fortunate discoverers of the Kearsage.

The same journal also says:

We learn from Dr. Glick, one of the attendant physicians on the wounded in the late affray in Oro Fino gulch, that two of the wounded men are getting along very well. In the case of Mr. Moore, however, there is no change to note, and but slight hopes are entertained of his ultimate recovery; a day or so longer will doubtless decide the question either way. Prof. Hodge is at present in no imminent danger, and will, it is thought, finally recover. His son, Russell Hodge, is doing as well as under the circumstances could be expected.

P. S.—Since writing the above, we learn that Mr. George Moore breathed his last at a quarter past six o'clock Friday evening.

One of the deserters recently captured and taken back to Fort Reading, says the Wilmington (Cal.) Journal, deserted again on the following night. Ike Bloomfield met him in the street the next day and asked him where he was going. Wiping the tobacco juice from his lips, he coolly replied: "Going to Washton Territory to re-enlist, draw new blankets, and uniform, get first bounty and advance pay, and again desert."

Last Saturday evening a man named Steinheiser was shot dead at a saloon in Plattsmouth by a man named Cairns. An old grudge had existed between the parties, and this was its result. Cairns attempted to escape; but the promptitude of the officers prevented that, and he was lodged in jail.—Omaha Republican, 30th ult.

Two dollars, only, was the price of cabin passage from San Francisco to Portland, Oregon, by the Oriflamme, which sailed on Thursday. If one is doing nothing, it is cheaper to travel at that rate than stay at home.—Sacramento Bee, 4th inst.

Still Lives.—Henry Betts, of Norwalk, Connecticut, who in 1810 proposed the railroad across the continent and was thought to be insane on account of it, still lives to see his idea fast being realized.

J. Bugbee, Baggage Master of the steamer Golden Age, on the last trip of that vessel, brought a lot of fresh New York oysters, in the shell, in splendid condition.

Robert Heller, the celebrated wizard and pianist, who is under engagement to the Bartletts, sailed from New York on the 1st inst. for San Francisco.

The Impeachment—What Republican Papers Say.

The question of the impeachment of the President, so seriously broached in Congress and ardently supported by Republicans like Thaddeus Stevens, of Pennsylvania, and Ashley, of Ohio, has brought forth expressions from the press of the United States. Of course the Democratic papers are bitterly opposed to impeachment, whether right or wrong. But it is also to be noted that a large majority of the leading Republican papers discountenance the movement. The general tone is that, however obnoxious the President may have made himself to the dominant party, more evil is likely to result to the country from an attempt at impeachment than for the President to continue in office until the end of the term. As a significant sign of the times, we make the following extracts from leading Republican papers at the East:

NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

"We do not say that a President should not be impeached. We by no means say that Mr. Johnson should not be impeached. That would be to take judgment into our own hands. We think this Administration has been a disgrace—a calamity—the cause of many evils to the country. We should like some redress. But how is it to be had? In attempting to remove these evils, may we not fly to others that we know not of? May we not put a precedent upon our statute books which will give any Democratic majority in the Senate or House in future years the right to revolutionize the Government in the interest of Slavery? Let us walk slowly, and survey the ground as we go. Let us not lay violent hands upon the Executive office until we find that no other course remains for the honor of the nation. Perhaps we are wrong; but it does not seem to us that the time for the sterner alternative has come."

ALBANY EVENING JOURNAL.

"The temptation to proceed to extreme measures in rebuking the outrageous policy of the President is very great; but sober second thought establishes the value of forbearance. Congress is so strongly for the right, and has such absolute power to negative the schemes of the President—whatever may be his intentions—there can be no sufficient reason for incurring the hazards and excitements of a process looking to his removal from office."

BOSTON JOURNAL.

"There are other matters of much more vital interest to the whole country demanding the attention of Congress, and the members had better attend to them at once, and leave the impeachment matter until there is some more pressing necessity for considering it than there is at present. When that time comes the subject must be entered upon with a different spirit and from different motives from those which seemed to characterize some of the most earnest advocates of the measure at the meeting on Saturday. It is too grave a matter to be instituted to gratify the personal animosities or ambitious aspirations of any one or any half dozen members of Congress. The country does not at present demand the impeachment of the President, and Congress had better let the matter rest until such a demand is heard. In the meantime, if it will attend faithfully and promptly to the tariff measures now before it, to the reduction of our burdensome taxation, to measures looking to a return to a sound financial condition, it will do better service than to get up impeachment resolutions, and keep the country in a continual ferment. We hope that wise counsels will prevail, and that we shall have a few weeks of that practical legislation, for the want of which all departments of trade and business are suffering."

PORTLAND (MAINE) DAILY PRESS.

"A searching investigation of the President's official conduct is what the country expects. Congress has already appointed committees to report upon those incidents of his administration which have seemed especially objectionable. It would have been well to wait for those reports before proceeding to consider what shall be done provided the result of the authorized inquiries corresponds to the popular impression. Mr. Ashley, perhaps for the sake of identifying his name with the movement, has chosen to anticipate the reports, and the House, not choosing to be put in a false position by rejecting his resolution; has instructed the Judiciary Committee to inquire whether the President deserves impeachment. That Committee will probably wait at least for the further information which is expected from the New Orleans Committee and from Mr. Pike's Special Committee before taking any definite action."

SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) REPUBLICAN.

"If any sort of case could be made out for impeachment, Congress would not be slow to undertake it, but it is so obvious, as Judge Spaulding, of Ohio, confessed in the caucus, that no serious charge can be sustained, that it is worse than a waste of time for Congress to occupy itself with the matter at all. Mr. Stevens made one of his violent speeches, in which he said that it was impossible to reconstruct the South with Andrew Johnson as President. He was the head and front of all opposition, and so long as he remained there the laws of Congress would be inoperative, and the power of the army, which might be required to enforce the laws of Congress, would be subject to the control of Andrew Johnson. The chief thing necessary to the full enforcement of the laws was the removal of the obstacle thus interposed. He was for impeachment regardless of consequences to himself, and thought members should look at the subject in the same manner. Enabling acts and reconstruction measures were useless as long as Andrew Johnson was President. Either the doors must be opened wide and the rebels admitted to their seats, or the President be removed.

* * * * * * * *

"Mr. Boutwell is a member of the Judiciary Committee, and as he is strongly committed to impeachment, he will be very certain to press it if he can discover any ground for it. For the present it is at rest, and will probably descend to Gen. Butler next year."

NEW YORK TIMES.

Referring to extracts similar to those above given, the New York Times (whose editor, H. J. Raymond, is a member of Congress and will have a vote on the impeachment question) says:

"If the opinion is anywhere held that the Union party in the country demand the impeachment of President Johnson, a reference to other columns of this week's issue will furnish a corrective. From the columns of our Republican cotemporaries we have gathered proofs, not only that impeachment is not demanded, but that the propositions pointing to that end are deprecated as inexpedient, both in a national and a party sense. This view in no case proceeds from any lingering liking for the President or his policy. The party are as a unit in reference to the duty of Congress to push forward its measures of reconstruction, regardless of the plans of the President, and in reference also to the hopeless [illegible] all attempts at [illegible] Mr. Johnson into having any."

ALBANY EVENING JOURNAL.

"A drift of Washington opinion, strong Radical opinion, is setting on Mr. Stevens' leadership that way," says:

"But in recognizing the existing prerogatives of Congress, the people did not intend to confer power upon it to remodel the Government, reconstruct all the States of the Union, or revolutionize the system upon which it has thus far been maintained. If Thad. Stevens and his followers thus interpret the decision of the late elections, it will not take them long to discover that they have made a supreme mistake."

CHICAGO POST.

The Chicago Post, (Radical,) a bitter opponent of the President, says:

"We are not among the number who have deemed it the part of wisdom to undertake an impeachment of President Johnson at the present juncture."

TROY (N. Y.) TIMES.

"Nearly every Republican newspaper of prominence and influence—even including the Radical Tribune—earnestly opposes the Ashley movement for the impeachment of the President. In the first place it is ill-timed. Sufficient evidence of criminality has not been developed to satisfy the public mind that the President should be impeached. In the second place, its agitation is damaging to the country. Business affairs are in an unsettled condition, and our finances are peculiarly sensitive to changes. In the third place, the extreme measure should not be entered upon in a spirit of partizanship. Intentional crime should be so apparent that honest citizens of all parties would approve the proceeding. In the fourth place, it should not be undertaken except under the pressure of extreme national danger from executive crimes and usurpations.

* * * * * * * *

"The exigencies do no exist to warrant the impeachment measure. The people do not approve it. We trust there is the good Republican judgment in Congress to defeat this hot-headed and ill-advised attempt."

Our space will not permit further extracts, though we find expressions similar to the foregoing in the following named papers, considered among the leading Republican journals of the country, viz: Providence (R. I.) Journal, edited by United States Senator Anthony; Oswego (N. Y.) Advertiser and Times; Newburg Times; Jackson (Mich.) Citizen; Cincinnati Commercial; Chicago Journal; Brooklyn Union; Troy Whig; Rochester Express; Utica Herald. These papers are all opposed to the President and his policy, and their opposition to impeachment does not originate in any good will towards him. They, however, we think, indicate the popular sense on the question of impeachment. We arrive at the conclusion then, that there will be no impeachment at this session of Congress.

THE following letter is published in the Washington Chronicle, of January 23d:

"Troy, Obion county, W. Tenn.,
"January 13th, 1867.

"Dr. Almon Case, State Senator from Obion, Weakly and Henry, was brutally murdered on last Friday evening about sundown in the road, near home. He fell dead off his horse near the place where his son was murdered some three or four months ago."

Other information which we have received from reliable sources adds a blacker hue to the crime of his brutal murderer, who on the same day dyed his hands in the blood of two Union citizens of Obion county. Frank Farris, the assassin, is a young man about twenty-one years of age, and was a neighbor of Senator Case. His mother is a widow. During the rebellion he was a guerrilla, being a member of a band commanded by his elder brother, Oliver Farris, a notorious desperado, who was a Champ Ferguson in his way. Oliver Farris, prior to the rebellion, had been a favorite of Senator Case, who having taken a deep interest in his welfare, as he was wont to do in that of all poor young men, had sent him to school, paying his tuition, and furnishing him with books, clothing and funds. In almost all respects, Senator Case had treated the elder Ferris as his own son, and even during the rebellion took a deep interest in him, and hoped to effect his reformation. Oliver Farris, however, committed so many atrocities that he finally fled the country, although it is believed by some that he is still lurking in the neighborhood, directing the members of his troop in the perpetration of outrages upon Union citizens.

On the morning of the murder Frank Farris rode into the town of Troy, in company with Moses Kinman, a Union man, conversing in a seemingly friendly manner. In this way the two rode into the public square, when Kinman observed Farris stealthily preparing to draw his pistol, and suspecting his treachery, instantly dismounted. As he was dismounting Farris fired, the bullet entering his lower jaw, ranging upward, cutting off his palate, and coming out at the other side of his head. Kinman was alive at the latest account, but his recovery was deemed impossible. Farris then rode off toward the residence of Senator Case, with what sad result is already known. No effort was made by any one to arrest him when he shot Kinman. That the murder of Senator Case was a well-known and prearranged affair is evident from the arrival of the two confederates just in time to give Farris aid if necessary, for his victim was a stout, brave man, who would have been too much for him in a fair contest.

A young man of this place, while on a recent visit to Jackson, was threatened with a mob for speaking favorably of Gen. Sherman. A rebel boasted, not long since, that there were seventeen hundred men organized to prevent the enforcement of Brownlow's laws in West Tennessee.

NEW MILITARY POST.—The Alta California says Lieutenant Yard, of the Ninth United States Infantry, formerly stationed here, is now building a stone fort at El Dorado Canyon, Arizona, which will be garrisoned by a full company of troops. Hitherto the rich mines in that vicinity have been almost totally neglected on account of the Indian difficulties, but no more trouble is anticipated in that direction, and work will now be resumed at once. The Colorado Mill, which has been idle for a long time, will be set running again immediately, and from what it has already done no doubt is entertained of its making rich returns to the owners. Fort El Dorado will be the highest post yet located on the Colorado River. Ten men will be detailed from Fort El Dorado to guard the goods at Callville, now awaiting transportation to Salt Lake and intermediate points. Semi-weekly mails now run from Salt Lake to Prescott, and thence to Los Angeles.

We understand that Fort Saunders, on the Salt Lake road, this side of the North Platte, is blessed with a commander who exercises supreme control of matters in that region. He confiscates property, punishes offences committed by civilians, and the other day granted a divorce between man and wife. We suggest to the Commander of the Department that his easy wants looking after if these things are true.—Denver News.

[SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION VEDETTE.]

New York, February 12.

Chittenden & Co.'s dry goods store was destroyed by fire Monday. Insured for $1,000,000. Also, Joffray & Co.'s dry goods establishment, with a loss of $150,000 in stock and building valued at $300,000.

Washington, February 12.

In the Senate, the Bankrupt bill was taken up. The vote rejecting it having been reconsidered, the question [illegible]

Sumner endeavored to offer amendments excluding rebels from the privilege of voluntary bankruptcy.

The Chair ruled that unless the vote ordering the bill to a third reading was reconsidered it was not amendable. A debate followed.

Sumner said he was constantly receiving letters from the South giving accounts of the persecution and murder of Unionists. If Senators would vote down his amendment, well and good; he had been voted down before when he brought in his bill to repeal the Fugitive Slave law.

Cotiness said he was tired of the leader's whip in the Senate, and of hearing Sumner accuse the Senate of cowardice. He (Conness) had tried to do his duty, and was determined to no longer submit to Sumner's lash. He thought it unbecoming and indecent in Sumner to accuse him and others of dereliction of duty.

After further debate the bill passed—yeas, 22; nays, 20. It goes to the House for concurrence in the amendments.

The House had under consideration the bill reported yesterday from the select committee on the New Orleans riot. The vote ordering the main question was reconsidered, when Eliot moved to strike out the 12th section, providing for an election of a delegate from Louisiana to the House, which prevailed. Eliot then renewed the demand for the previous question, but after some debate allowed the opponents of the bill two hours for remarks. Boyer, Harding and Finck spoke in opposition to the measure, and at 3 o'clock the House seconded the previous question. Eliot, in closing the debate in support of the bill, yielded the floor successively to LeBlond and Noell, who opposed, and Shellabarger, who advocated the bill. The bill passed.

Washington, February 12.

In the Senate, Pomeroy, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported a bill creating the office of Surveyor General of Montana, and establishing Land Offices in Montana and Arizona, as a substitute for the bill organizing land districts in Arizona, Idaho and Utah.

New York, February 12.

The losses by fire to-day were: Chittenden & Co., $750,000 to $900,000; insured, $840,000 in a large number of companies. The building was owned by D. Appleton & Co.; whose loss is $200,000, and insurance $140,000. Joffray & Co., loss, $50,000; insured, $25,000.

WEBSTER AT A DISCOUNT.—Following are some of the errors of orthography made by the candidates for certificates at the State Examination lately held in this city: Sychology, psycology, phycology, cykologe—one-half failed to spell it correctly. Diaphram, diffram, diagramm. Eschutsion, eschutson—one-third failed. Syskyu, Syskiau, Siskeyou—only four spelled it correctly. Eleven misspelled Nicaragua. Sixteen missed Cincinnati, one spelling it Stanishlaugh. Chalybeate was spelled caliberate, and nineteen other ways. The above are taken from the papers on orthography, and do not include any of those equally pitiable ones—and their number is legion—made in the answers to the questions on other branches. Perhaps it is not as generally known how our children are taught as it should be. For our own part we should prefer an unrevised Webester's Dictionary in the hands of our children to the instruction which such teachers as the following must necessarily impart. The same teachers who spelled as above were equally fortunate in their definitions. Innovate was defined to enter, to make inroads, to give greeting, to introduce, to invade, to disturb, to reach in, to come by force, and several did not attempt a definition. Indigenous: Secret, inward growling, not generous, and worthless. Gregarious: Obnoxious, vegetable, traveling in fields, mixed, doubtful. Irrigate: To nourish, to keep open. Recount: To balance the other way, to give back, to confess, to withdraw, to fall back together, to harden into stone. Eleven attempted no answer. Parricide: One who flatters a flatterer, the slaying of an equal, to watch over, the murder of a President. Accelerate: to go forth, to retard. One bright genius, to show how much he knew, added of his own accord, "velospeed: swift to run a race." Only one defined every word. Others could not define one word in every four. Really it seems as though the schoolmaster had been abroad long enough.—Marysville Appeal.

TO THE POINT.—"Our ingress in life is naked and bare; our progress through life is trouble and care; our egress is out of it we know not where; but doing well here we shall do well there; I could not tell more by preaching a year."

The above pithy sermon was delivered somewhere.

Hansholfeugotsternevanaafanandelfenwolfen Stemer fell down stairs this morning and broke his name in three pieces. Good for him.

PAHRANAGAT MINES.—The Revelle, of the 8th, says:

We are informed by Mr. Hearn, who arrived yesterday from Hot Creek, that a few companies are engaged in working their mines, generally with encouraging results. His company are developing three ledges on Keystone Hill, called Pilot Knob, Clipper, and Alta. The former is opened to the depth of twenty feet, showing a vein three feet thick; there is a twelve foot cut on the Clipper, in which a good vein twenty-eight inches wide is discovered, and the Alta is opened thirteen feet deep, at which point the vein is five feet thick. The veins are well represented to be well defined, their smooth crystal walls holding a deep clay selvage. Working tests have been had of two of the ledges, the certificates of which were shown to us. The ore from the Pilot Knob, tested at the Keystone mill, yielded at the rate of $148 27 per ton; from the Alta $54 03. The owners of the Old Dominion were furnishing ore to the small mill of the Consolidation Company, which could reduce about three tons per day, and did not afford the desired facility to the miners of the district.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—The San Francisco papers state that on Monday, the 30th ult., as the six o'clock train on the Oakland Railroad was running up toward Clinton, a man named Nolan jumped off the cars while they were in motion as they came up to the Oak Creek Station. The unfortunate man—who appeared to be in liquor at the time—was caught by the wheel and carried up under the brace, against which he was doubled over with such force as to crush him in the most terrible and shocking manner, breaking his neck, and, of course, causing instant death. Deceased was a teamster by occupation, and left a family residing near the beautiful place of Colonel Kirkham on the San Antonio Creek. No fault could be attributed to anybody on the train for the terrible catastrophe, and the unfortunate man's death is chargeable to whisky alone.

CUT IN TWO.—A horrible accident occurred at Charles Burnett's saw mill, on Moonshine Creek, Yuba county, Cal., on Tuesday morning, January 29th. Wm. H. Benjamin, the head sawyer, while at work, slipped, or was caught by the circular saw, which cut him completely in two, from the right shoulder diagonally towards the left hip—across the body. The attention of the men at work in the mill was attracted by the peculiar sound of the machinery, and on looking for the cause they saw the body of Benjamin falling in pieces on each side. Deceased was a native of Illinois. His relatives are living on Rock river, near Rockford, in that State.

Local and Miscellaneous.

ADVERTISERS.—The VEDETTE is the pioneer newspaper of Utah. Its extensive circulation in the mining camp and city of Montana and Idaho, which it gives the telegraphic despatches a whole week ahead of the Pacific papers,) makes it the most advantageous medium for advertising in these four Territories.

THE NEW HOTEL.—The doors of the Revere House will be thrown open to the public to-morrow. The proprietors, Messrs. G. D. Jenks & Co., have made every preparation for the comfort of their guests, and will, no doubt, receive their share of patronage from the travelling public. The culinary department under the supervision of Mr. John Clark, which is a guarantee that the appetite of patrons of the Revere will be well cared for.

VALENTINE'S DAY.—To-day is Saint Valentine's day, when the birds are said to mate and not unfrequently matches of another kind can date their origin on the anniversary of the birth of this world renowned saint. Notes containing tender lines and loving words, as well as those of another class, filled with sharp rebuke and bitter ridicule, will, no doubt, be interchanged by both sexes to-day.

COLD SNAP.—After a long spell of warm rainy weather we were visited on Monday night with a storm of wind and a heavy fall of snow, which continued throughout Tuesday. Yesterday morning the thermometer fell a point which admonished us that winter had not yet left us. The clouds still threaten another storm, and there is every appearance of a continuation of cold weather.

ALL WELL.—We received a letter yesterday from Mr. I. M. Weston, dated Denver, Feb. 7th, announcing the arrival of himself and family all well and getting along finely.

FELL.—A man, whose name we were unable to learn, fell down in a fit yesterday on Second South street. He was taken into the Salt Lake House and properly cared for.

TELEGRAPHS DOWN.—The telegraph wires were down east of Omaha all day yesterday, caused, no doubt, by the severe snow storms which have been so prevalent of late in that vicinity.

TO RENT.—Small house to let on Emigrant street. See advertisement. 64-tf

AN INGENIOUS CUSTOMER—The San Francisco Times of the 5th instant, gives the following account of the appearance of a dangerous animal in the streets of San Francisco:

Yesterday morning considerable excitement was created by the appearance of a huge boar, as large as a pony, and frantic with rage, which had escaped from a slaughter-house and started on the rampage. The first person which appears to have attracted his gentleman's special enmity was the garden of Mr. Sonntag, the well known florist, on Howard street—the gate of which being open he walked in. An Indian boy employed on the premises observing the intruder went to turn him out, but Mr. Boar made short work of the Indian and run him into the conservatory, which would have gone through the glass after him had not his attention been attracted by a dog that came to the gate to see what the boy was hallooing about. The boar made after this dog, chasing him for nearly half a mile up Howard towards Eighth street, when, meeting a gentleman driving a cart, it actually attempted to jump into the cart, and it required all the presence of the man, who used the tail board dexterously, to keep the brute out. After running and fighting in this manner for several hundred yards, they came up to a party of about a dozen men working in a sandbank. The boar went in among them and soon cleared the field. The brute had teeth nearly three inches in length, and foamed at the mouth like Buchanan McKean Buchanan when chewing cud and the bristles stood up on its back like a dough to frighten anybody. Finding the stone-slingers not inclined to fight, the infuriated brute went like a race-horse towards Howard street, where a policeman was standing on the corner. He made straight for the officer, who, with remarkable coolness, drew his revolver and shot it in the eye. Rendered furious by the pain, it rushed open-mouthed upon the officer, who fired again and hit it in the other eye. In this helpless state the men it had attacked in the sandbank came up and literally hacked it to death with their picks and shovels. A man with a gun fired into it six times before it finally died.

CAPTAIN SPALLER, having received information that a young man, of rather fast habits, had induced a girl into a room in one of the hotels at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, the San Francisco Times of February 6th proceeded to the room and found a rather pretty girl, about eighteen years of age, sitting in a chair, who seemed to be afraid to speak. On questioning the girl the officer found that she had been to one of those houses of ill-fame of vice, a Sunday evening party, in company with a young man who had been paying his addresses to her for some time, and remaining till it was too late to come to the family in whose service she was engaged, was persuaded by the young man to accept of a room for the night at the hotel. She said she did not like to go to bed, but determined to sleep in the chair. The girl appears, bears a good character, and has about friends in the city.

ACCIDENT.—The Sacramento Bee, of the 6th inst., says John H. Fisher, who lives and occupied a farm about four miles from Woodland, Yolo county, met with an accident Thursday evening which caused his death. On that evening Mr. Fisher took a pail in some milk and started out to feed a calf which he had confined by a rope to the side of a temporary shed or roof. He was found about an hour after entirely dead, the shed having fallen, piling the heavy board fence upon him. It is supposed that the calf, when he was feeding pulled away the rope by which it was tied, causing the whole affair to fall. Mr. Fisher was a good citizen and an estimable man. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his loss, and the community to regret his untimely end.

THE ARREST.—The Call says quite a sensation was created in San Francisco by the arrest of W. A. Cornwall, a well known citizen, and J. Pennypacker, late a Deputy in the United States Revenue Assessor's office, for an alleged attempt to blackmail Alvinza Hayward to the amount of $2,000 under the pretence that Hayward was a special Government defaulter. It had discovered that Hayward had defrauded his income for 1866, which had been estimated at $91,000. The parties went before a Commissioner to examine themselves in writing, in the case of the complaint alleged by which had been lodged against Hayward by the Assessor. The Internal Revenue Collector and Assessor will unite in prosecuting the case. They were both admitted to bail in the sum of $5,000 each. Hayward is owner of the Gold Hill mine.

GREAT DESTRUCTION OF WATER.—We have already given an account of a great freshet, culminating in the Walla Walla River, on the 24th ult., and extending to other streams in the Territories. We have since received particulars:

On Saturday, January 27th, our Valley was visited by a warm rain, which rapidly melted the snow on the mountains and caused the streams in the Valley to overflow their banks beyond all former knowledge. The rain continued to descend all day on Monday and through the night, until Tuesday morning, when Mill Creek was found to have assumed the proportions of a river. The rain continued to descend on Tuesday, and as a consequence the streams became more swollen. Mill Creek, about a mile from town, overflowed its highest banks, and the stream thus divided poured a flood of water down along the line of Alder street, causing considerable destruction of property far removed from ordinary high-water. At the corner of Third and Alder streets, so fierce was the torrent for a time that it threatened to carry away Mr. Linkton's warehouse, and with it a large quantity of grain. By great exertion the torrent was turned into the bed of Alder street, and the building escaped with little damage other than the washing away of the foundations and the consequent sinking of the structure. The only other damage of special note along the line of Alder street was the filling of Mr. Wm. Phillips' fire-proof cellar, in which was stored a stock of stoves and hardware, all of which is damaged. All day on Tuesday and the greater part of Wednesday this portion of the town presented the appearance of a lake, and persons living beyond Alder street could only reach their homes by fording a stream waist deep. A temporary bridge was finally erected over Alder street, between Third and Fourth streets, which for the time being proved a great convenience.

The Court House was swept away, but the papers and public documents had been previously removed to a place of safety. Mooney's bowling alley was carried down the stream with two young men, who were sleeping in the building. They were saved by taken refuge on a sand bank. The total damage to property was $18,000. No lives lost. At last accounts the freshet was subsiding.

INDIAN TROUBLES.—The telegraph reports a massacre of fifty-eight white men by a party of Indians on the Smoky Hill route. The news must be received with considerable allowance, as there is a discrepancy in the number of men with the train, to start with, and the intelligence depends on the statement of one man only. * * * We advise our citizens to be patient until the real state of the case is made clear, especially as we can do nothing in the matter, and troops are on the way out. We hope the telegraph will not be used as a reason for raising the prices of provisions.

The above is from the Colorado Times, of the 4th inst. We also have a private letter from Denver, which says the story is not credited in that city.

SUIT DISMISSED.—A dispatch to the Sacramento Bee, dated San Francisco, February 4, says:

The suit of J. Manchester and wife against the proprietors of the Morning Call, for damages for libel, was dismissed this morning.

IN Mariposa county, California, William R. Carson found a nugget of pure gold weighing about four pounds.

A new evening paper, to be called the Daily Record, was to have made its appearance in Sacramento last week.

A "great brute of a husband" advertised in the morning papers for a "stout, able-bodied man to hold his wife's tongue!"

MCGINLEY TROUPE.—The Arizona Gazette says this troupe are performing at Prescott.

The New Orleans Times publishes the following [illegible] Thomas [illegible] Hamilton, whose loss was noticed in our telegraphic dispatches:

The boat took fire at half past three o'clock on Thursday afternoon, on the outside cotton—the outside tier on the larboard side. We used every effort to put it out, but when rounding to—we rounded to on the windward side—the wind blew the flame right through the tier of cotton, and the first thing I discovered was, that while the fire had been extinguished on the outside the flames had been blown through and had caught on the inside tiers. There were three Burton tiers of cotton abreast the boilers. As soon as I discovered the smoke coming up between the guards and the cotton I knew there was no chance to save the boat. Then the next thing was to land her and try to save the people on board. We ran into the bank on the Baton Rouge side, about seven miles above Baton Rouge, under a full head of steam, both engines working, and we ran her in high and dry forward, so that the people on the forecastle jumped off right on the bank. I then went aft and tried to save the people on the aft of the boat.

At about the time I started aft and commenced throwing ladders and trestles over, that we used for scrubbing, a panic was created among the passengers and the women commenced throwing their children overboard and jumping after them. The scene that ensued was indescribable. There were between forty and fifty persons in the river at one time, struggling between life and death—ladies who could not swim—with their hands up and shrieking for assistance.

I then got both the lifeboats overboard, but to no effect at all, one sinking, and the other, which came up right side, got adrift, and no one got into it. After leaving the wreck, I got into the river and came between the aft derrick guys and swam to the yawl. After I got into the water I picked up several lady passengers, and went ashore and put them off. I was so perfectly exhausted by battling with one of the sides of the yawl, that I got out there, and another party got into the yawl and started down the river to see if he could discover any persons clinging to the wreck or cotton bales, and he went down to Baton Rouge. A couple of children were picked up, but I believe they died on the way or as soon as they got to Baton Rouge. One of the children was recognized by a lady and the other was not.

There was a large number of emigrants bound to Texas on the boat, one of whom, a lady, behaved in a very heroic manner. After I had taken her child from her she got hold of the yawl, and when I tried to pull her up she said, "Let me alone, I am safe. Help those ladies on the other side; for God's sake help them!" It gives me pleasure to add that she was among the saved.

When I swam to the yawl Captain Pratt was in it, paddling with one of the stateroom blinds. He waded waist deep to get into the yawl and save some ladies. When I got into the yawl he was perfectly exhausted, and said, "Hastings take this paddle and help save the ladies;" and we both worked away to save the ladies. We got all the ladies of the party off, but lost one or two children. These ladies were from Natchez, and I think were related to Messrs. Rick & Shelton.

There must have been between fifty and sixty persons in all lost, for I saw between forty and fifty persons at one time struggling for their lives.
